

THE HISTORY OF TONINO'S PIZZA

In 1977, Tonino's Pizza was nothing more than a distant dream for Antonio Illiano, a 17-year old Italian immigrant. Born in the small town of Fusaro, about 15 minutes from center city Naples, Tonino ("Little Tony" as he came to be known) grew up learning traditional southern Italian cooking methods from his mother and father, using fresh foods right from the family farm and baking pizzas in their outdoor, wood-fired oven.

These delicious family recipes and cooking methods, passed down from generation to generation, are what gave Tonino his passion for good food made with fresh, clean ingredients and pushed him to turn this passion into a successful career.

Today, after learning from and watching their father open 19 successful pizza shops over the years, Tonino has been joined by his sons, Josh, Andrew, Tony and Julius, to expand to expand the Tonino's Pizza name across central Pennsylvania.
